

Supporting and developing sustainable development goals

The College of Medicine, Al-Nahrain University, adopts the policy of the national government and the Ministry of Higher Education and Scientific Research in developing sustainable development goals. The college, as an institution, supports all conferences or cooperative seminars to update standards related to sustainability, in addition to volunteer programs and activities for students and teachers, and to encourage research in sustainable development. It also aims to The college implements sustainable development goals in its study programs, as this subject is taught to primary studies students in the third stage within the subject of community medicine, and it is taught in a form. Detailed information for postgraduate students and the Arab and Iraqi Boards of Family and Community Medicine

The college, as an institution of great importance, provides assistance to the local community to support the start of financially and socially sustainable businesses through mentorship programs, training workshops, access to various college facilities such as the counseling center in the college, and organizing visits to the Al Ain Foundation for Social Welfare branch, the orphanage, and the nursing home in the Holy Kadhimiya area. The college also contributes as a policy-making body at the national, regional and global levels to implement programs and policies to support education and eliminate ignorance and poverty through the college. Deans of medical colleges, headed by Prof. Dr. Anis Khalil Nayel, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Al-Nahrain University

The college also provides easy access to educational resources for guests, students, and researchers from outside the college, such as the library, the research center, and training courses and workshops for Iraqi and Arab Board students and graduate studies. The university hosts events that are open to the attendance of religious, political and official figures in addition to the general public, such as (general awareness lectures, the Two Rivers Spring Festival, and the activities of the Women's Empowerment Unit. Aside from religion, race, disability, or gender).

Grants and support for people with limited income

The College of Medicine, Al-Nahrain University, has clear programs to reduce the wages of undergraduate and postgraduate students. The reduction includes the following points according to the official student procedures guide.

1. Discount for brothers
2. Discount for top students
3. Discount for top students in preparatory stage
4. Discount for low-income students

It also has a program to support students from low- or lower-middle-income countries (free education and scholarships, according to the scholarship program that Al-Nahrain University opens at the beginning of the academic year, where students from Egypt, Jordan, and Yemen were accepted in the previous academic years and the current academic year.